WHERE THE FARMER MAKES MONEY.

During the past seven or eight years we have made twice as many pounds of butter. This was sold at an average price of 35 1/2 cents per pound, distributing $30,000 among the patrons. There were probably 10,000 farmers in Alberta, so that the proceeds from this butter alone amounted to an average of $32 per man for every farmer in the province. However, not much, if any, of the creameries did this the season, which would bring the average to the patrons up to something more than $100 each. This estimate is borne out by the fact that the market value of the creameries' milk crop, which was $400 in 1907, has risen to $500 in 1908, while many now $500 or more each. This is the most gratifying that the dairy herd is usually run as a kind of "side-line" to stock-raising or grain-growing, and is not yet considered as one branch of the farm business. Comparatively few farmers make milk production the whole or even the main object of the farm. If the returns are so satisfactory when milk-growing is only a side-line, in which the farmer's attention and capital are divided, this should be found especially profitable to the man who concentrates his time and money and makes it the first or the sole business of the farm.

A quarter of this butter went to the Yukon, where we now seem to have some of a monopoly on the butter trade. Much more went to British Columbia, where the farmers have succeeded in capturing the dairy trade of the neighboring States from what should always have been, will in all probability be our market for the future. The market in the Yukon is still small, but the market in British Columbia is the largest in the country. The former over the entire price he has obtained during recent years. When he had no export market to the north and west, or none to speak of, the dairy business held little attraction for the farmer, and he had to make a living on his farm. The less he had to do with it in those years the better off he was, generally speaking. The same rule held with regard to the men who had their money in creameries, which increased and steadily markets abroad the product swamped the local demand; the price dropped and stayed down there was no room of better profit. Then came the time when the Government came to the rescue, offering the grants on the one hand assistance in starting up new creameries, and on the other taking over the existing ones and capturing them for the market. The British Columbia and the Yukon success has crowned both lines of effort. Our creameries have multiplied and their output grows yearly; yet the demand remains keen and the price good.

These markets our farmers will now be able to hold. How profitable it will be to hold them is suggested in the petition for the past season. The year before last the number of units of usual activity in either British Columbia or the Yukon. On the other hand, the output of the creameries has been largely in excess of previous seasons. In 1907 there were more farmers than ever before in the creamery business, and with no proportionate increase in the number of customers to the British Columbia and the Yukon, the market supply has been greatly taken up. The available figures thus supply a good ground for calculation as to what we may expect when development becomes brisker. The markets are increasing in population and the demand is customer. The output will increase, but will the market, and at present there appears no likelihood of the former failing to keep up with the demand? To come a stamp in the West. In no single line of business there seem to be a better outlook for a permanently prosperous business than that of dairying. Unless the signs are all wrong and geography proves false, the Alberta farmer has only been 25% to draw dividends from his dairy herd.

A CHANCE TO HELP. A correspondent writes the bulletin suggesting a subscription to provide Christmas cheer for the needy of the city, and generally offering to contribute his services to help get up a fund. Fortunately arrangements to this end have already been made! The Salvation Army, with commendable spirit, has undertaken to provide the expense of the Christmas dinner, and the comfort of the soldiers will be given to their visitors so far as the funds available will go. They are appealing to the public for means, and undertake to distribute these according to the number and the conditions of the cases made known to them. To start work the organization of the Army has been invited and the excellent service rendered in the past both here and elsewhere is assurance that the work will be well done. The assistance they will give is of great value to the many cases at their disposal and the number of cases brought to their notice. To those like myself with the correspondent—and may they be legion—the salvation can turn in to the officers of the Army with the names of any cases known to be lacking in the materials for a fitting celebration of the Christmas season. The Army have their own organization to the service of the churchably disposed. A better agency in the comprehensive and systematic handling of relief work the public could hardly find.

WARRING AGAINST CONSPIRACY. To those of us who would like to believe that trouble in India is causing the English to become more and more anything but comforting. On Dec. 12 the council approved a bill providing for speedy trial of persons implicated in plots and political offenses against the government. The bill also provides for the punishment of offenders by imprisonment for the maximum period of two years, and the maximum sentence referred to a widespread conspiracy submitted to the British rule. Lord Milner urged the necessity of stamping out the secret societies, and one branch of the farm business. Comparatively few farmers make milk production the whole or even the main object of the farm. If the returns are so satisfactory when milk-growing is only a side-line, in which the farmer's attention and capital are divided, this should be found especially profitable to the man who concentrates his time and money and makes it the first or the sole business of the farm.

CURRENT COMMENT. Sir Max Waechter wants to abolish Kings and Emperors and convert Europe into another United States. He has a steady job as long as he will want it.

Calgary commissioners are proposing to chop three or four miles off the prospective street railway system. Edmonton is proposing to add about half length to its existing system during the coming summer.

ALBERTA RIFLES. Out over Alberta's sunless plains. They muster in at the bugle call. To march at the trick of the drum. And the bugle call is the bugle call. And our young Alberta's pride! And home springs high in each heart. When the Mounties ride.

What more could the heart of youth desire? What could it grander term? That we stand together between your knees. And a hand in the saddle firm. And a hand in the saddle firm. To all thy lungs, to the gall, And a hand given upon either side. In the gird of old John Bull? If we have a thought it is for the land. We love so well and long; If we have a thought, it is for her sake. May guard us in sight, from sight, of wings. And when in the bright sunshine, Over the prairie fair and free, The Rosses swing into line.

For the dim forest's rim, And the fresh brook's rippled long sweet stream. In the clear blue sky. Breathing across the verdant waste, Where the dark cloud-shadows pass, On the boundless sea of grass.

This is to us the chosen land, And the land of promise fair; And we will ride the prairie wide, And swear that never was a land As we stand with these that stand.

For the power of Britain's throne, Unto expand, up, up! We ride in peace But should the bogies blow, We'll stand the land we love.

There are the joys to go Out're the hope of the broad free West.

Where man's spirit won't let fear

And the spirit of God is near.

Forward we march! Let us onward ride With the pride of strength and youth, Citizens-soldiers loyal at heart.

And proving the truth in truth; For the King and Country, And honoring well the King!

Riding at Dury's farm command

Our own Alberta's camp station.

The long, red columns go.

Swinging along to the summer camp.

And thus would they meet a foe.

For the youthful spirit of the West.

Is young Alberta's pride.

and we echo a cheer from the land so blest.

With the Mounties ride.

ROBERT T. ANDERSON,

Edmonton, Dec. 21, 1908.

CORRESPONDENCE*THE COMPENSATION ACT.

Editor Bulletin:

In the issue of Saturday under the heading "Legislation complicates Workers' Compensation," when I mentioned the Workmen's Compensation Act, which is to become operative on January 1 next, I omitted to mention the many new incautious appearing in the article which make it misleading. I would like to point out that the new claimants' claims for legislation that it does not possess, but it seems to do so in the extreme, and have minimized the benefits to be derived by workers from the Act.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT PROSECUTED BY KING

In Reference to the Situation in India
Deep Secret Is Expressed at the Home of Commons—The Queen—Matters of World Wide Interest Are Referred To.

London, Dec. 21.—Parliament was prorogued today by King Edward until the middle of February. The King did not appear personally before the House of Commons, but returned to his suite in the special room of the House of Lords, where he signed the warrant of adjunction. He signed the warrant of adjunction to give the House of Commons power to adjourn itself for a period of three months.

Reference to India Situation.

The King, in his speech, referred to the King's speech, which was read in the House of Commons, referred to the situation in India, and said: "The King has kept deep secret at 'A conspiracy of evil disposed persons' the continuance of British rule," and expressed the earnest wish that the native Indians in the administration of the country will be received in the same spirit in which they are received in which they are received.

Important Agreements Made.

The King said that several important agreements had been made which had been concluded during the past year, which included the cause of the continuation of peace. Among these agreements, said the King, should be mentioned the agreement with the United States, one for general administration of certain ports with the Baluchistan.

The Baluchistan. Referring to the situation he said that there were reasons I hope that wise and conciliatoryicable settlement would be reached with the consent of the signatures.

Referring to the United States he said: "The visit of the King has evoked warm feelings of hospitality and cordiality in my domain in the United States, and I have derived much source of gratification to myself and to my government."

The King said: "The affectionate greeting of the people of Canada by all classes during the celebrations at Quebec, Canada, at the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, the remainder of th King's speech is reserved to denote more.

DISTRICT NEWS

NORTH BATTLEFORD.

Mr. Sydney Simpson, teller in the Battleford branch of the Bank of Hamilton, was arrested yesterday morning by the Bank of Montreal, Regina, and leaves for that point shortly after Christmas.

Mr. McCormick, late accountant in the Battleford branch of the Bank of British North America, left on Sunday morning for the same place, having taken up a branch of the bank at that point. On the evening of the 12th instant Mr. McCormick was invited to attend a banquet given by his many friends in town as a token of the esteem in which he was held.

F. Wright has returned to the Battleford branch of the Bank of British North America, having been absent two weeks' re-living in the north town.

Harry Detwiler has been confined to his room in the hospital owing to a light attack of the grippe.

The North Battleford Quadrille eve of the 15th proved a huge success. These dances are great favorites among the dancing people in town.

Messrs. Maher, Klaehn and Curry were married on Saturday afternoon and Monday and their election was met with approval by the citizens of the town.

A quiet wedding took place on the morning of the 16th, when Miss Clara Johnstone, of North Battleford, and Mr. Johnston, of Scott, Sask.

The happy couple left on the eastbound train for their honeymoon, and will return to Scott shortly after Christmas.

Mr. Kennedy, the well known lumberman, has been confined to his bed a day after a week's shooting in the woods.

He says that game is very scarce this year, and that is the result of his outing.

Wm. Cope leaves in a few days for Europe, bound for Blackpool, England, owing to his illness. Mr. Cope will be much missed and it is hoped he may be home again in time for the opening of the new session.

North Battleford, Dec. 19th.

The new Presbyterian church at Pine Ridge was opened last Sunday and a number of the Manly settlers attended. The services were held one at 11.30 a.m., and another at 3 p.m., conducted by Rev. Dr. McPherson, of the First Presbyterian Church, of Fort Saskatchewan, the conceiver of the district. Ten infant baptisms were performed and communion was administered at the morning service. Miss Neely presided at the organ, and an anti "Rock of Ages" was sung. The Rev. Mr. Agar, of the Methodist church, also said a prayer in the evening.

The service is now 30c. on the ticket, getting into the plain in time to be dispatched on Saturday morning, when general meetings are convened throughout the constituency.

Mr. and Mrs. Gotsinger visited Edmonton on Saturday, and Mr. Gotsinger also went to Edmonton on business.

An exciting time was experienced by Mr. and Mrs. Gotsinger, who were staying with the latter at Manly last Saturday morning. The chimney of the Woodside Inn caught fire and the shingles on the roof were ignited. Those who had been a serious fire hazard, however, did not appear on the scene, Mr. Walker being the only one to improve his position.

Mr. Newell, action gas prompter, John A. McPherson, M.P.P., had a public meeting last Thursday at Manly, Dec. 19.

With the advent of a little more money, the miners will commence getting out logs again.

Dan Brox passes through Manly on his way to his homestead west of White Lake.

Manly, Dec. 19.

ARDROSSON.

The home of Mark Latkin has been quantified by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who resides there, has diplomatic status.

H. S. Parker has gone to the East Coast on his vacation, and his Christmas holidays at home.

Mrs. Hanson left on Tuesday for Brandon, where she will remain for the holidays with her son. Mrs. Hanson will return next year.

Edgar Clegg, Bar Second, is closed at present, as the teacher is in quarantine.

The Christmas Tree, which was to be held in the East Clover Bar Second, has been postponed until Christmas night. December 25th.

John Lockett, just, has arrived home for the holidays.

The Christmas Tree in Fairmount, the Friday evening, has been postponed.

The weather could not have been better and everyone was in good spirits.

The time taken to prepare the pasture, Rev. Mr. McPherson, occupied the clear.

Santa Claus arrived just as the children were singing their last hymn.

There were several small boxes full of candy and nuts to the children.

The proceeds amounted to $100.

Ardenwood, December 19th.

Mr. Holden, butcher, has brought his dwelling to town and has opened his shop.

R. Allan's building is nearly completed.

Sandy Minford's boarding house is now open.

Mr. and Mrs. Minford have moved into their new home.

Mr. Minford will be in a position to accommodate the travelling man.

Mr. Holden also needs a furniture shop, a hardware store, a second-hand store, another general store, a good grocery and a drug store.

In short, Holden needs every business represented.

M. Smith shipped three tons of poultry to P. P. Burns & Co., last Monday.

Mr. Groland also shipped a large quantity of grain.

More poultry bought in all the other towns on the G.T.P. in Alberta.

The farmers are taking advantage of Mr. Mosher's enterprise and are buying grain in large quantities.

It is surprising the amount of grain being sold here this year.

Holden, Dec. 18.
